Be Ready

Faith is based on witness, Abraham and Sarah had faith because God kept his promises and they saw his works. The people in exile had faith because God kept his promises and they remembered his works. Our faith requires remembering God's works with our ancestors. They lived and died in the light of the resurrection of Jesus the way, the truth, and the life leading to the New Jerusalem, our heavenly homeland. We must stand ready to meet the Lord when he returns! Maranatha!

Why Do Catholics Venerate Relics?

August 14th is the feast day of St. Maximilian Kolbe

Our Lady of the Rosary will display our First Class relic of this beloved Saint after the 8AM Mass

In the South West corner of the sanctuary we are building a Reliquary, to house the relics we have obtained over the past year. The veneration of relics in the Catholic tradition can be misunderstood. At first glance it can appear to be displaced praise. Critics would falsely claim that praise or worship is accorded to the relic or saint rather than God himself, who, of course, is rightly the only subject of all worship.

A proper understanding of relic veneration, however, is best achieved with an appropriate approach. It would simply be incoherent to think that a Catholic would offer praise and worship to anyone other than God. And yet, honoring the saints and their relics is also an important part of what we do.

In order to develop a proper understanding of the place of relics in the Christian tradition, it might be helpful to consider them within a different context that of family. It's not uncommon for many people to honor the memory of their loved ones by keeping pictures of family around the house. Nor is it uncommon to keep cherished belongings of our deceased loved ones, like grandma's jewelry or grandpa's Bible. These belongings likely are treasured and treated with honor and reverence. They're kept in safe and honorable places. They're well-packaged when we move. They're often handed on from one generation to the next. These secular "relics" assist us in recalling the person and his or her life, and the memories that remind us of who they were and what they were about.

It is not rare to honor remnants of relatives' bodies, or those of notable people. Often parents will keep first teeth that are lost or save clippings of their child's first haircut. We build monuments to great men and women and set up grave markers to memorialize them. And so, it seems almost second nature for us to honor members of our family and those dear to us as well as the objects that belonged to them.

Catholics see the members of the Church as members of a family. As human beings, we are composites of body and soul and the Church honors the body after death. We do this as well in our families when we visit and decorate graves on birthdays, death dates or holidays. Made in God's image and likeness, we recognize the dignity of the human person by honoring their earthly remains. The saints are those men and women from our family who are deserving of our honor for their life of spiritual greatness. Moreover, they have put on Christ in baptism to become members of his body.

We should understand that relics are meant to be honored and venerated, not worshipped. In fact, the saints lead us to fuller worship of God in spirit and truth. By honoring their memories, bodies and belongings, we give thanks to God for the saint's holy witness. Relics are physical, tangible, concrete reminders that heaven is obtainable for us especially when we recognize what made the saints holy and work to apply those qualities to our lives. When venerating relics, we express gratitude to God for those members of our spiritual family. In the presence of the relics we recall their holy lives and we pray for the grace to achieve what they've achieved — eternity with God in Heaven. To honor this feast day, please consider praying in the presence of this great saint, this Wednesday August 14th, after the 8AM Mass.
